

The road to the Alltech FEI European Jumping & Dressage Championships 2009

Day 41

The Alltech FEI European Jumping & Dressage Championships 2009 are attracting huge International interest with no less than seven TV broadcasters set to arrive in Windsor, to capture the UK's most important equestrian event this decade.

Equidia (France); SVT (Sweden); SGR/SSR (Switzerland); ARD & ZDF (Germany), NOB (Netherlands) and RAI (Italy) are all due to make the trip to the Championships as members of the European Broadcasting Union, allowing key action to be aired across Europe.

In the UK, the BBC has confirmed its intended live coverage as follows:

Friday, 28th August: BBC 2: 2 pm – 4pm Live coverage of the second round of the Team and Individual Show Jumping Finals.

Saturday, 29th August: Red Button service: 7.45pm - 10.30pm Live coverage of the Dressage Final, the Grand Prix Freestyle to Music (Kur).

Sunday, 30th August BBC2: 4.15pm - 5.30pm Live coverage of the Individual Show Jumping Final.

With the FEI also providing live streaming of the event through it's newly launched, broadband based video platform FEI.TV - equestrian and sports fans alike cannot fail to miss out on the action! The unique website (www.feitv.org) will enable global viewing of this prestigious sporting event from one central site.

41 days and counting!
